From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated November 13.

Naples, October 24.

AN Order arriv'd some Days ago from the Court of Madrid, to forbid giving the Emperor any other Title than that of King of the Romans: And the like Order has been publish'd at Messina. A Soldier in Drink crying out, Long live the Emperor, has been sent to the Gallies for it.

From the Paris Gazette, dated November 14.

Venice, October 24. Letters from Lombardy advise; that the beginning of this Month Prince Eugene march'd with part of his Army towards the Canonica, above Cassano: But he found the Passages so well guarded, that he retir'd without attempting to force them. A few Days after, he receiv'd a Reinforcement of 400 Cuirassiers, and a Recruit of 600 Foot. But a great many of his Men fall Sick daily, and he sends them to Palazzuolo, where their Distempers have spread among the Inhabitants. Fourscore Waggons with Sick Men are arriv'd at Salo, whence they are to be transported to the Trentin. The Duke of Wirtemberg is return'd to Germany, though the Wound he receiv'd in the Battle of Cassano, be not quite heal'd up. The Prince of Anhalt, who commanded the Brandenburg Troops, is likewise gone for Berlin. The Imperialists that are in Palazzuolo demanded of the Neighbouring Country, a great Number of Waggons, which being refus'd, so enrag'd them, that they seiz'd Count Antonio Duranti of Brescia who happen'd at that time to be in those Parts. General Delfino having Advice of it, march'd with 600 Horse to Chiari, leaving Signior Duodo Commissary General to command in Brescia in his Room. He has sent Troops into all the wall'd Towns, particularly 3000 Men into Dezenzano, because 'tis a more commodious Place than Salo which the Imperialists seem to design to quit. Some Vessels have brought from Dalmatia 7 or 800 Foot, which will be sent to Verona, and more are expected from that Country to recruit the Regiments in the Terra-firma. The 30th of last Month the Chevalier Ruzini and Signior Emo, sail'd in 2 of our Men of War, the first for Constantinople, having the Character of Ambassador extraordinary of the Republick to the Porte, the second to exercise the Office of General of the Morea. General Steinau, whom the Republick has nominated to command their Troops in the Room of the Marquis du Hamel who died in the Morea, arriv'd here the 14th, and is shortly to take that Command upon him in the Terra-firma. A Ship that left Constantinople the 30th of last Month, brought Advice, that the grand Signior had caus'd above 1000 Persons that were concern'd in the last Conspiracy, to be drown'd or strangled; and order'd Search to be made after several more that have withdrawn themselves. Letters that arriv'd since, inform us Count Emeric Tekeli died the 13th of September in the Neighbourhood of Nicomedia, and by his Will has made Prince Ragotski's second Son Heir to all his Estate in Hungary.

From the Paris Gazette, dated November 14.

Milan, October 28. The Duke of Vendome by the March he made to observe Prince Eugene, has not only cover'd the Cremonese and the lower Oglio, but has also sav'd Castel Leone into which the Peasants, had carried above 15000 Loads of Corn. The Artillery began to fire upon Soncino the 23d at 6 in the Morning, and at Noon 400 Men that were garrison'd in it yielded themselves Prisoners of War. In the Place were found 20000 Rations of Bread, a Magazine of Meal, and 60000 Rations of Hay, which was a seasonable Supply for our Horse, Forrage being grown scarce in that Country, by reason of the long stay the Armies have made in it. During the Siege, Prince Eugene who was encamp'd at Fontanella, made no Motion to succour the Place. He since march'd to Calzo near Urago, and we hear he has taken the Route of Palazzuolo, whither the Duke of Vendome is following him with all possible Expedition. A Courier that left the Duke de la Feuillade's Army Yesterday, reports, that Duke had caus'd Asti to be invested, and waited only for the Artillery he had order'd thither from Alexandria to attack it: That in the mean time he had taken the Castle of Annona, situate within 3 Miles of Asti on the Road to Alexandria, and in it 400 Men Prisoners of War. The Duke of Savoy was with his Troops on the Hills about the Upper Tanaro, to endeavour to harrafs the King's Army.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 12.

From Prince Eugene of Savoy's Camp near Fontanella, October 28. The 24th we had an Account that the Garrison of Soncino had the Day before yielded themselves Prisoners of War to the Enemy: That Garrison consisted of 270 Men; but only 80 of them were in a Condition to do Service, all the rest being sick. An Order that was sent to them to retire out of the Place came too late. The 25th a Captain with 100 Men was detach'd towards Calzo, and Collonel Beyer with 400 towards Urago; and order was sent to Collonel Batee who at that time commanded the flying Camp of Lieutenant Collonel Lucatelli between Brescia and Salo, to repair likewise to Urago. The same Day Lieutenant Collonel Eicko arriv'd in the Camp with 100 Recruits of Foot from Germany. The 26th we had Intelligence that Collonel Batee had taken Post in the old Intrenchments at Urago; that he design'd to cause them to be repair'd; that he had receiv'd a Reinforcement of 500 Men of the Regiment of Albon which is coming from Bavaria; that one of his Parties of 50 Horse meeting one of 400 of the Enemy, had had the good Fortune to make their Way through them Sword in Hand, with the Loss of 4 Men only, and that they had kill'd several of the French on the Spot and taken one Prisoner. The 27th Captain Hocberg went out with a Party of Horse, and return'd with 21 of the Enemy Prisoners. To Day (the 28th) the Garrison of Soncino was exchange'd against a like Number of the Enemy. The Duke of Vendome continues encamp'd between Ticengo and Soncino.

Amsterdam, November 17. Letters from Italy make us apprehend Prince Eugene (whose Army (say those Letters) suffers for want of Provisions,) will be oblig'd to come to a Battle with the Duke of Vendome, though the latter is 10 or 12000 Men superior to him: Because the said Duke has sent a Detachment to cut off his Supplies of Provisions.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 7.

Cazal, October 30. Some Days ago the Duke de la Feuillade detach'd some Troops towards Asti, which which have taken Possession of several Posts about that Place, and also of the Castles of Cagliano and Scurfolengo, the Garrisons of which, consisting of 500 Germans, were made Prisoners of War, and have been conducted to Crescentino. Yesterday the Duke de la Feuillade sent towards Asti a great number of Fascines and Bags of Earth, which he had caus'd to be got ready here: And to Day he will follow in Person. General Staremberg is said to be got into Asti, with several Officers of Note, a great many Gunners and Miners, and a Reinforcement of 400 Men, most Grenadiers.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 12.

Paris, November 6. They write from Chamberri, that the Savoyards have found means to revictual Montmeillan for 2 or 3 Months: And that our Troops that block up that Place must abandon it, or be reinforced.

Antibes, October 28. The Duke of Berwick is arriv'd here from Toulon; whence before his Departure sail'd 5 Gallies, 4 Men of War, and 3 Bomb-Vessels, having on board 40 Cannon and 12 Mortars, which they are to bring hither, and they are to be employ'd in the Siege of the Castle of Nice; for which Siege a Body of 12000 Men is drawing together in our Neighbourhood: And a great Number of Fascines and other things necessary for this Service are provided at Villa-Franca. The Marquis de Carail is in the Castle of Nice with 800 Men: 'Tis believ'd our Forces must first attack the Town of Nice, the Marquis de Carail having caus'd the Fortifications which were blown up when abandon'd by us not long since, to be repair'd. 'Tis talk'd that after this Expedition, the Troops employ'd in it will either be order'd to besiege Montmeillan in Form, or to march to Spain, as shall be judg'd most needful.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 17.

Dresden, November 6. King Augustus has join'd the confederate Army near Ticokzin. The Czar has agreed he shall have the sole Command of that Army, which consists of 80000 Men. And the 4th of this Month his Majesty was to advance directly to Warsaw, to offer Battle to the Swedes.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 17.

Letters from Hamburgh of the 13th Instant advise, that they had not receiv'd the Letters due that Day from Warsaw; and that they waited their Arrival with great Impatience, because some Passengers that were come thither Post from Dantzick, reported there had been a great Action near Warsaw in which the Swedes had the worst.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 17.

Plymouth, November 9. On the 7th came in from cruising Her Majesty's Ships the Northumberland, Breda, Nassaw, Worcester, and Triton, and with them a St. Malo Privateer of 14 Guns, taken by the latter: Yesterday came in from Swanze 10 Vessels with Coals for this Place.
